This workshop is aimed at primary and secondary school teachers, lecturers, university students and researchers interested in Second Language Acquisition (SLA).

SLA is a field with a long tradition which has increased in importance since the 1960s. The multiple perspectives adopted provide different but complementary answers to the understanding of oral and written data produced by young and older learners in different settings.

The workshop will be held entirely in English, but it intends to cater for all those interested in L2 or foreign language acquisition, as the issues dealt with should be applicable to any L2.

Students attending the symposium will obtain 1 credit (aukera askea-libre elección).
